P. Magnus : Scientific Enquiry and Natural Kinds: From Planets to Mallards (New Directions in the Philosophy of Science) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Scientific Enquiry and Natural Kinds: From Planets to Mallards (New Directions in the Philosophy of Science):

Some scientific categories seem to correspond to genuine features of the world and are indispensable for successful science in some domain; in short, they are natural kinds . This book gives a general account of what it is to be a natural kind and puts the account to work illuminating numerous specific examples.

About the Author P.D. MAGNUS is Associate Professor and teaches philosophy at the University at Albany, SUNY, USA. He has been a visiting fellow at the Center for Philosophy of Science in Pittsburgh, he is the co-editor (with Jacob Busch) of New Waves in Philosophy of Science, and he is the author or co-author of dozens of published essays.
